VOL. III. RALEIGH, N. C., WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1867. NO. 119.

DAILY SENTINEL.

WM. R. PELL, Proprietor.

[By Rev. S. R. Mallory.]

THE JOHNSON-SHERMAN NEGOTIATION.

It was evident to every dispassionate mind that no further military stand could be made, and that Mr. Davis should secure his safety by leaving the country in the event of the failure of these negotiations; and it was deemed expedient that he should place himself further south, to be ready to cross the Mississippi and get into Mexico, or to leave the coast of Florida for the Bahamas or Cuba.

But it was no less evident that Mr. Davis was extremely reluctant to quit the country at all, and that he would make no effort to leave it so long as he could find an organized body of troops, however small, in the field. He shrunk from the idea of abandoning any body of men who might still be found willing to strike for the cause, and gave little attention to the question of his personal safety.

In leaving Greensboro', Mr. Reagan, Mr. Breckinridge, and Mr. Mallory rode with Mr. Davis and his three aids on horseback; and Mr. Trenholm, Mr. George Davis, and Mr. Benjamin, comprising the six members of the Cabinet, were in ambulances with General Cooper and other officers. The roads were bad from recent rains and long use of them without repairs. Their route lay through Jamestown, High Point, and Lexington; and at the latter place, which they reached at 9 o'clock P. M., they staid all night—Mr. Davis and a portion of his Cabinet stopping at the house of Mr. Barringer, where they were most cordially and hospitably received, and where Mrs. Barringer, a cultivated and refined lady, evinced all the warmth and kindness of a true daughter of the South.

The party left Lexington during the forenoon of the next day, rode slowly, to keep with the wagons and ambulances, crossed the head waters of the Pedee, and reached Salisbury that evening. Salisbury had been occupied by the enemy, and much of the town, including the depot and railroad buildings, had been destroyed. Mr. Davis went to the house of a private friend, where he remained all night, and on the following afternoon the party again started South, and stayed that night at the little town of Concord. On the following day they rode into Charlotte. Here the Confederate Government had several public establishments, many local officers; and arrangements had been made for the accommodation of Mr. Davis and Cabinet at private houses; and they were received and treated with the utmost kindness and courtesy.

Upon all sides, however, the proofs of the exploded cause were evident.

In the course of an hour after reaching Charlotte, and before the party had separated for their several quarters, a dispatch was received from Mr. Breckinridge (who had, with Mr. Reagan, returned to Johnston's camp at Greensboro') by Mr. Davis, announcing the assassination of Mr. Lincoln. To a friend who met him a few minutes after he had received it, and who expressed his incredulity as to its truthfulness, Mr. Davis replied that true it sounded like a canard, but in such a condition of public affairs as the country then presented, a crime of this kind might be perpetrated. His friend remarked that the news was very disastrous for the South; for such an event would substitute for the known humanity and benevolence of Mr. Lincoln a feeling of vindictiveness in his successor and in Congress, and that an attempt would doubtless be made to connect the Government or the people of the South with the assassination. To this Mr. Davis replied, sadly: "I certainly have no special regard for Mr. Lincoln; but there are a great many men of whose end I would much rather hear than his. I fear it will be disastrous to our people, and I regret it deeply."

The party remained at Charlotte about one week. While here Mr. Davis received the propositions agreed upon between Johnston and Sherman for peace, submitted them to his Cabinet, and called upon its members present for written opinions upon them. These were called for at about 10 o'clock on the evening when the terms were received, and the Cabinet met him at 10 next morning. All were present except Mr. Breckenridge, who had approved them, and who was then with Johnston, and Mr. Trenholm, who was sick at a private house in Charlotte.

No comparison or interchange of opinions had been had, and their views were nearly identical as to the condition of the country, the character of the terms, and the policy of accepting them; and upon calling upon Mr. Trenholm he concurred in the views of his colleagues. They were thus returned to Johnston approved.

Three days afterwards Mr. Davis received a dispatch from Johnston announcing that the Government of the United States disapproved Sherman's course, and that no other terms than those offered by Grant to Lee could be given.

Johnston accepted these terms, within the time agreed upon, and surrendered his army.

No other course now seemed open to Mr. Davis but to leave the country; and his immediate advisers urged him to do so with the utmost promptitude. Troops began to come into Charlotte, however, escaping from Johnston's surrender, and there was much talk amongst them of crossing the Mississippi and continuing the war. Portions of Hampton's, Debrell's Duke's and Ferguson's commands of cavalry were hourly coming in. They seemed determined to get across the river and fight it out, and wherever they encountered Mr. Davis they cheered and sought to ecnourage him. It was evident that he was greatly affected by the constancy and spirit of these men, and that, regardless of his own safety, his thoughts dwelt upon the possibility of gathering together a body of troops to make head against the foe and to arouse the people to arms.

His friends, however, saw the urgent expediency of getting further South as rapidly as possible, and after about a week's stay at Charlotte they left with an escort of some two or three hundred cavalry, and two days afterwards reached Yorkville, S. C., travelling slowly and not at all like men escaping from the country.

In pursuing this route the party met near the Catawba river a gentleman whose plantation and homestead lay about half a mile from its banks, and who had come out to meet Mr. Davis and to offer him the hospitality of his house.

His dwelling, beautifully situated and surrounded by ornate and cultivated grounds, was reached about 4 o'clock P. M., and the charming lady of the mansion, with that earnest sympathy and generous kindness which Mr. Davis in misfortune never failed to receive from Southern women, soon made every man of the party forget his cares and feel, for a time at least, "o'er all the ills of life victorious."

After such slight renovation and changes of their travel-soiled toilets as circumstances permitted, and an hour of refreshing rest, it was a novel sight to see Mr. Davis and Mr. Reagan, with a little son of their kind host as their ally, playing an animated and well contested game of marbles against his second son, a boy of some ten years, supported by Gen. Breckinridge and another Cabin-t officer. The game lasted nearly an hour; and notwithstanding the skill of his opponents, Breckinridge, who plays the best game of marbles of any leading public man since Judge Marshall excelled, and who had his usual good luck, came off victorious.

The youngsters, two bright intelligent Southern boys, will never forget that ardently-disputed game of marbles with Mr. Davis, who, to their infinite delight, seemed as much at home with all the words of caution and command, from "knuckle down at taw" to "roundings," as themselves.

At Yorkville, Colonel Preston and other gentlemen had arranged for the accommodation of Mr. Davis and his party at private houses, and here they remained one night and a part of the next day.

A small cavalry escort scouted extensively, and kept Mr. Davis advised of the positions of the enemy's forces, to avoid which was a matter of some difficulty. With this view, the party from Yorkville rode over to a point below Clinton, on the Lawrenceville and Columbus railroad, and thence struck off to Cokesboro', on the Greenville railroad.

Here the party received the kindest attention at private houses. On the evening of his arrival Mr. Davis received news by a scout that the enemy's cavalry, in considerable force, was but ten miles off, and that he was pressing stock upon all sides; and it was deemed advisable to make but a brief stay.

Valuable Property For Sale.

BY VIRTUE OF A DEED OF TRUST executed to me, by the late Wm. F. Collins, I will sell, on Monday, the 13th day of January, 1868, to the highest bidder, at the Court House door in Warrenton, the following valuable property:

The Tract of Land on which the late Wm. F. Collins resided, at the time of his death, situated in Warren County, on the Williamsboro' Road, two (2) miles from Ridgeway Depot, on the R. & G. R. R., and adjoining the lands of Jno. E. Jones, B. M. Collins and others, containing

ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-TWO (172) ACRES.

On this Tract are situated the celebrated RIDGEWAY MILLS, which are not surpassed in the manufacture of Flour by any in the State. The Mills are in first-rate running order.

There are on the premises a Dwelling House, the necessary out-houses, barns, stables &c., for conducting a farm. The land is under good fences and in a high state of cultivation, about one-half the tract being in original woods, convenient to the House and Mill.

There is also a fine young Orchard of Apple and Peach trees, well selected, and several young vines of the Scuppernong Grape.

Persons wishing to purchase would do well to examine the property before the sale.

Terms made known on day of sale.

WILMINGTON AND WELDON,
ATLANTIC AND NORTH CAROLINA,
WILMINGTON AND MANCHESTER,
CHARLOTTE AND SOUTH CAROLINA R. R.,
And their connections.

Time Quick and Rates Low.

THIS NEW TRUNK LINE FORMS A GREAT FREIGHT ROUTE between Baltimore and Weldon, Warrenton, Raleigh, Hillsboro', Lexington, Salisbury, Morganton, Charlotte, Lincolnton Goldsboro', Newbern, Beaufort, Wilmington, Chesterville, Winnsboro', Columbia, Sumterville, Manchester, and all intermediate points on and near these great Railways and their connections.

The Powhatan Steamers connect at Petersburg with Petersburg Railway for all points in the Carolinas. Cars are run alongside of Steamers' Wharf and goods transferred with careful handling. Cars are run through without breaking bulk between Petersburg and Raleigh. Charlotte, Goldsboro', Wilmington, &c., &c. This Inland Line possesses many advantages over a Sea Route. Marine risk is small and insurance is comparatively nothing. The Wharf of the Powhatan Steamers being situated in the very centre of the great shipping district of Baltimore, renders it convenient to shippers, and drayage is very small.

Great attention paid to consignments of Cotton, Corn, Wheat, Rosin, &c. &c. All produce forwarded at the lowest possible rates.

☞ To insure transportation over this Inland Fast Line, mark all goods, whether Northward or Southward bound, "VIA PETERSBURG."

☞ Freight landed in Baltimore day following delivery to the Steamers.

Through Receipts are given and fixed rate per 100 pounds guaranteed both ways ☞ Rates in every case same as via Bay Line and Portsmouth to and from Baltimore, Philadelphia and New York.

N. B.—With regard to last named points, freight is forwarded to and from Petersburg by Philadelphia and N. Y. Steamers.

Valuable Lands and Mills for Sale.

PURSUANT TO A DECREE OF THE COURT of Equity for Johnston County, at Fall Term, 1867, I shall, on Saturday, the 18th day of January next, on the premises, proceed to sell, at public sale, that valuable property, near Boon Hill, in said County, known as consisting of fifteen hundred and ninety-five acres of Land, lying near the North Carolina Railroad, and within one and a half miles of Boon Hill Depot.

The said lands are the first quality of Cotton lands. About 300 acres are cleared, and have been in cultivation. The rest is in primitive forest, and is well timbered, although a considerable quantity of Fine Timber has been cut off.

The improvements consist of an excellent Saw Mill, with a forty-two inch circular Saw, run by a Jonvals Turbine Wheel, which, for beauty of work and quickness of cutting, is unsurpassed. There is also a tram road from the Mill to the Railroad, where there is a turnout. Also a Grist Mill, which will grind 60 bushels of corn per day. Also a Store and Office, a Blacksmith Shop, and four houses for operatives, and beautifully situated on a hill, containing eight rooms, to which are attached all necessary outhouses and Stables, with two Gardens, one of which contains one of the largest and finest Scuppernong Arbors in the State.

The water on the place is excellent, and it is one of the healthiest locations in the low country.

TERMS OF SALE:

One hundred and fifty dollars cash; four thousand two hundred and fifty dollars on the 4th Monday in March, 1868, and notes at six and twelve months from the day of sale, bearing interest. For the balance, bonds with approved security will be required, and the title retained until the purchase money is paid. Possession given on the first day of February, 1868.

MOST OF YOU HAVING AGREED WITH MY predecessor, Mr. Webb to take care for your old bonds, I take this method of informing you we are now ready for the exchange.

To capitalists I would say, we will sell $100,000 of eight per cent. coupon bonds, secured by mortgage on the road, and payable in five, ten, or twenty years, as the purchaser may desire,—interest payable semi-annually.

The debt of the Company is about $700,000.—Bonds to fund this debt will be issued.

The property mortgaged to secure the payment of these bonds is worth in currency seven millions of dollars. There can be no better security.

The bonds will be sold only at par.

CHRISTMAS.

A HAPPY CHRISTMAS TO ALL! There are many, we fear, upon whose ears the words will fall like mockery. It will require a stouter heart, a livelier faith, a more jocund spirit, than fall to the lot of many mortals, to plock sources of merry-making or light-someness from out the gloom which enshrouds most of our Southern land. It comes as a mournful reflection, at this whilome season of charities, hilarity and all good cheer, that the malice of men should have unfitted so many of their fellows for entering into the joyous and genial observances, which have signalized, from time immemorial, the natal day of Him, who heralded "Peace on Earth and Good-Will towards men." Christmas, with its teeming board and sparkling hearth-stones,—its smiling faces and liberal largess,—its hearty glee and gladsome pastimes,—comes inappositely to those in whose political house-holds sit strange and evil spectres, foreshadowing ruin and desecration to all that they have venerated in the past, and beneath whose domestic roof trees stalk the gaunt images of destitution and suffering.—Still Christmas, with its holy associations, that lead the mind back to the manger and to Bethlehem, and up and forward to the consolations of the Advent, comes appropriately to all, however sombre their surroundings or gloomy their future;—the more gloomy and the more sombre these are, in fact, the more impressive and hopeful the teachings of the sacred season.

But far be it from us to discourage, chill or repress the fullest proper enjoyment of this Christian festival, of which any one can avail himself. It will be well, that the older people, upon whom the heavy cares and responsibilities of the times have fallen, should divest themselves, if they can, for the nonce, of trouble and apprehension, and seek, in the interchange of friendly sentiment and in the delights of social and family re-union, a temporary ray of sunshine in which to disport awhile. They may find it in the memories which gild their youthful commemorations of the day, if, perchance, no gleam is about or before them now. And remembering, thus, what Christmas was in the years when Santa Claus was a glorious reality, and it the day of all the year, let it still be made as far as possible, as happy an era for the children as it erewhile was to us. Heaven bless the children! The man who feels not his nature softened, or his brow of care relax, at the innocent, bright and joyous face of "one of these little ones," has elements in him that are past all redemption. Yes, make the children glad, to-day. Christ came as a child—He loved the children,—He rebuked those who would have forbidden their rushing into his tender arms,—and He declared that the heart, faith and purity of a little child were necessary to secure acceptance with the Father.

The poor have especial claims upon us at the season which this morn ushers in. We may not have the bounty of olden time to bestow, but even a little given in the genuine spirit of kindly humanity—a common comfort to which the recipient may be a stranger—will make some cheerless home a trifle happier, some lonely hearth a ray brighter. The calamities of the times should bring us all nearer together in sympathy—that touch of nature which makes the world akin.

> "God give ye merry Christmas-tide,
> And give ye all to see
> How blessed 'tis to give, and know
> The grace of charity.
> Rejoice! for, once at Bethlehem,
> To give his life away,
> Our Lord and Master, Jesus Christ,
> Was born this blessed day."

After all, each one of us has much to be thankful for,—some pleasant associations connected with this day to recall,—some loving friends to greet—and some tender memories of those who once sat in the now vacant places around the blazing Yule. And so, to one and all—to our friends, and even to those who would do us hurt,—again we extend all the best wishes of Christmas morn!

IMMIGRATION TO VIRGINIA.

We observe, from frequent notices in our Virginia cotemporaries, that quite a number of substantial farmers from Pennsylvania, and perhaps other States, are migrating to the Valley or to Western Virginia and purchasing lands.—This is the right kind of immigration. A stream of such emigrants into this State would soon revive the drooping spirits of our people.

The accession of poor laborers, unable to buy lands, and who promise but little as permanent citizens, cannot be desirable in our present situation. Provision to feed and clothe our present population is too scant, to encourage an increase of such labor as can generally be obtained through the agency of Emigration Societies. That would only serve to augment the burden upon us. Several attempts have been made, by North Carolina farmers, to secure foreign laborers from newly arrived emigrants from Europe, at New York, but, so far as we have learned, failure has been the result in every instance.

Labor, it is true, has been greatly demoralized, yet, by substituting the small-farm plan for the old system of large farms, much more can be accomplished by the employment of a few hands together, than by a large number.

Congress has been discussing the right of American citizens abroad, and some very warlike sentiments have been uttered.

BANKRUPT ADVERTISING.—Our cotemporary, the Old North State, is but upon Judge Brooks again. The Judge had determined that the Standard and Pioneer were the only official organs of the government in this State, and that, therefore, they were his organs. The arguments of learned counsel, the opinion of Mr. Jencks, and others well informed, were of no avail. The Standard and Pioneer, having little else to keep them alive, must be kept up by government patronage. The decision is a very severe reflection upon the loyalty of the Register, of this city, the Post, at Wilmington, the Republican, and several negro papers in the State.

If the Conservative people of the State will do what they can to sustain their own papers, our cotemporaries need not complain of Judge Brooks' decision. If Radicals can starve us out, they will do it; therefore, it is the more necessary that every Conservative man, who can spare a dollar, should help the Conservative papers of his own State. It is a fact, which ought to be mentioned, that many Conservative men in the State subscribe for papers outside, and do not take their own State papers.

THE MOST APPROVED definition of "humbug" is finality. It is a word which should be expunged from the vocabulary. Its latest illustration is to be found in the infamous breach of faith, on the part of the House of Representatives, in passing a stringent supplement to a bill which was on all sides represented as a finality. But, as the Richmond Whig says, perfidy is nothing. Radical reconstruction and negro-supremacy are everything.

[Washington Correspondence N. Y. Citizen.]

NOTABLE MEMBERS OF CONGRESS SKETCHED IN CHARCOAL.

There is but little gossip afloat this week; but I am able to say authoritatively that Thad. Stevens expects to die in harness; also, that Judge Underwood is a Radical.—Roscoe Conkling is the best dressed man in Congress. Reverdy Johnson has more dignity in his make-up than any other member of the Senate. Thad. Stevens looks like a Methodist preacher. Impeacher Ashley has had his hyacynth locks combed. Judge Wilson, of Iowa, has grown gray in two years, and dresses more like a christian now, than a plow boy, as he used to. Billy Williams, of Indiana, has got a new pair of gold eye-glasses, which he hasn't worn long enough to become accustomed to, and consequently looks through them very awkardly, although he wears them all the time. Illinois Washburn lost much of his obesity during his recent European trip; but, as usual, swings his hands and arms when he talks, very much like the fans of a wind-mill.

Gen. Logan has had his hair cut, and looks very much like Zeb. Vance, late rebel Governor of North Carolina. Speaker Colfax's tongue is set on a pivot in the middle of his mouth, so that he can talk faster than Barnum's lightning calculator can cipher. Jack Rogers is, next to Speaker Colfax, the fastest talker in the world, and next to Cicero, whose mantle fell on his shoulders and slid off on the ground (nobody has picked it up since,) is the longest sentenced man that ever lived. Gen. Grant got through interviewing at Appomattox Court House, and has not had one with any body since. People won't believe me when I say that Ross, of Illinois, is a joker, but say he tries to be one.

Eldridge, of Wisconsin, never made a speech of more than ten minutes' duration in his life, and is one of the ablest Democrats in Congress. Marshall, of Illinois, is improving in health. Hooper, of Massachusetts, shows in his face, as well as in the rotundity of his person, that he is the best liver in the House, while McPherson, Clerk of the House, looks like the ghost of a starved cork-screw. He is so thin that he has to stand up twice to make a shadow, and yet he is a first rate liver. Gen. Garfield has got the strongest voice of any man in Congress; Gen. Logan has the loudest, Colfax the deepest; Thad. Stevens the weakest; and Kelley, of Pennsylvania, and Gen. Banks will have to flip pennies to find which has the most stentorian. Judge Kelley, however, talks through his nose too much, and imitate, Forrest in his style of declamation. He would make a first-class Jack Cade. Leonard Myers and Charles O'Neil, of Philadelphia, are as close in their intimacy with each other as the Siamese twins. Gen. Schenck and Gen. Butler talk by jerks, a phrase or a sentence at each jerk, as if they really believed what they said, and expected everybody to be convinced of the correctness of their views the moment the words leave their mouths. Butler wears a wide brimmed slouch hat, tilted on one side of his head, with a rakish or brigandish air, while his make-up otherwise resembles a well fed alderman. Philadelphia Van Trump, of Pennsylvania, looks, acts and talks like a stuffed turkey.

THE VIRGINIA CONVENTION AND THE FREEDMEN'S BUREAU.—A very significant debate took place in the Constitutional Convention, at Richmond, yesterday, upon a resolution asking for the retention of officers lately mustered out of the Bureau, and for the continuance of the Bureau itself. The debate took a wide range, and while most of the Republicans were warm in their praises of its past value and efficiency, the decided opinion, as indicated by the vote, was that the necessity for it had about passed away. The proposition for continuance obtained only 23 votes, the negative vote being 49. It seemed to be well understood in the Convention that the resolution was wholly in the interest of the employees and officials of the Bureau, who desire to hold their places.

In connection with the matter it is also well-known in this city that, in spite of General Howard's recommendation for discontinuing the Bureau in July next, a combined effort is being made on the part of the civil employees in this city and throughout the South to bring an influence to bear upon Congress to have the Bureau continued for another year.

General Grant, however, seems to be of the opinion that the District Commanders with the force under them can discharge all the duties now performed by the large army of civilians in the service of the Bureau, with scarcely no additional expense.

It is certainly very significant that a body so thoroughly Radical as the Virginia Convention does not desire the continuance of the Bureau.—Wash. Express.

A SIGN.—While a few from a full State Convention of the Black Radicals in New Hampshire were passing resolutions in consistance with the instructions of the Congressional directory, what was to be an amazing and overwhelming Grant demonstration at Boston came off at Faneuil Hall. The old, time-honored temple of liberty was not more than half filled, (as says the Boston Herald.) Small men only figured, and the proceedings, on the whole, were tame and spiritless.—National Intelligencer.

STATE ITEMS.

——Rev. T. B. Kingsbury has withdrawn from the Editorial chair of the Warrenton Vindicator. His facile and graceful pen should not be allowed to remain idle.

——Prof. Sargent, with a full Theatrical troupe, has arrived in Wilmington.

——Maj. Walker, with the "Dixie Pump," is in Newbern.

——Charlotte is now without military, for the first time since the close of the war.

——At the Special Term of Mecklenburg Superior Court, just closed, the docket was cleared of 225 cases. Judge Mitchell presided.

——The Charlotte Democrat expresses its regret at seeing such large numbers of idle negro men and boys standing about the streets. It says that when a load of wood is thrown out in front of a Store door, there are from twenty to thirty applicants to cut it up. Pretty much the same case in Raleigh.

[From the Syracuse Journal of Wednesday.]

THE EARTHQUAKE AT SYRACUSE, NEW YORK.

A very considerable shock of an earthquake was experienced in this city this morning at about ten minutes past three o'clock. It was so violent as to awaken many people. Its duration is variously estimated at from a minute to two or three minutes. The sensation produced by it is described as like the rolling of waves from south to north, rocking beds gently and yet decidedly, as a light boat would rock upon rapid but steady running waves. There was no noise accompanying the shock, except that caused by the rattling of windows or the jostling of crockery, which was quite violent in several instances reported to us. In one case where persons were up attending the sick, the commotion was so great as to create a fear that the house would be tumbled down—crockery in the pantry was thrown together, and the window sashes violently shaken.

In another case, a wash bowl standing inside another produced a succession of sharp, rattling noises sufficient to awaken sleepers in the same room. The sensation experienced by several persons we have met, who were suddenly awakened by the rocking motion of their beds, is described as being singular, driving away sleep for the rest of the night. It was a sudden awakening by a rocking motion entirely different from that ever before experienced, that created surprise and wonderment. The earliest vibrations were most severe, and the subsequent one gradually diminished in force.

About a month ago a shock of an earth quake—much less violent than this, however—was reported to have occurred in the Southern part of Onondaga county. Two earthquakes in so brief a period are rare luxuries for the people of this Northern latitude.

NEGRO BARBARISM IN HAYTI.—A special telegram to the Herald, which we printed yesterday, confirms the report of the murder of General Leon Montes, in the dungeon at Cape Haytien. The original report was bad enough; but, bad as it was, it left us in comparative ignorance of the actual facts of the case. The details as we now have them are horrible in the extreme. Kept without food for four days, dosed with poison, smothered to the extent to which available strength could smother him, he is only deprived of live at last by repeated stabs in the skull with a chisel. This, however, was not all. The brother of the murdered man, who had in the meantime been captured, was chained down to the bloody bed on which this deed of wickedness had been perpetrated. The only relieving feature in this barbaric picture is the announced fact that the parents of the brothers Montes have been driven to desperation. It is to be borne in mind that this barbarity has been accomplished by official command. What is the lesson? Do we require to state it? Were it not for the special benefit of our New England philanthropists we should be ashamed to do so. This is a specimen of negro civilization: this is what the negro can do when left to govern himself; this is an illustration beforehand of what is to be expected from negro supremacy in the South. A word to the wise is not lost. Even the unwise sometimes learn. God save the South from such masters.—N. Y. Herald.

The Christmas holidays are approaching, Congress has adjourned, and men, who have been sent to Washington to legislate for the benefit of the whole country and to take care of the interests of its people, are about to return to their happy firesides and thank God for the peace and prosperity and plenty with which they are provided, from the vaults of a Treasury, kept filled by the oppressive taxation of a community almost bankrupt. We do not use this phrase in a sense in any degree exaggerated. We simply mean to say that the National Government is this day in a bankrupt condition, and that, if something be not done to restore internal prosperity, and if new life and animation be not infused into trade, and if our manufactures be not again made self-sustaining, this Government can never again collect taxes enough to pay the interests on its debt and provide for its annual budget. Baltimore Gazette.

The condition of the people in the Cotton States to day is far more desperate than it was at the close of the war. Men who started there, with cheerful hearts and high hopes, to retrieve their impaired fortunes, are to day penniless. Two instances of many hundreds have fallen under our own notice within the past week. A gentleman who holds private bonds, well endorsed, for $175,000, all of which be considered perfectly good, offers them now for $5,000, and a widow lately who had loaned $18,000, on what was excellent security two years ago, has recently accepted $2,000 for the debt. She was advised by intelligent friends that a few months hence she might get nothing. Small planters in the uplands, who have cultivated their own patches, have probably made money; but the planters, as a class, are ruined, and have dragged their factors and creditors down with them.—Baltimore Gazette.

A YANKEE TRICK.—A sharp dodge was practiced in Springfield, Massachusetts, recently. A householder found a newly opened street, on which he lived with but one near neighbor, badly blockaded by the snow. He inserted an advertisement offering the premises at a ruinous sacrifice. The bait took the street was frequented from early morning till late, by a throng of speculators, who got there to find they were too late, an arrangement had been made. The street was thoroughly opened though the speculation was closed.

We have heard of a clergyman who, on his way to church with some gay young people, boasted that he could preach a sermon ex tempore, on a moment's notice, if any one would give him the text. One of the company immediately proposed that he should do it that afternoon. He consented, and the text selected was "Ephraim is a cake not turned." He broke down entirely before he was half through. The sermon is still remembered in the parish as the half baked sermon.

For the Sentinel.

THE POOR.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Except with the hope of lessening misery, we would invite no one to the contemplation of this subject, which is confessedly an unpleasant one. It is very plain that every city and town in the land is a nodal point of depraved society,—a fomes of the public vice. Any one may perceive, on examination, that vice and misery reside very much in the same location. The great Pons of political economists has ever been to give proper relief to the poor,—to aid them without injuring them. The Christian problem, too, is to lessen, and, if possible, to remove both vice and misery. Our Savior aimed at both. He healed while He reformed and saved. The Church has followed Him in this, even under the most corrupt forms. No adulteration or debasement of Christianity has ever availed to remove this characteristic. But while religion is always and everywhere operating to a certain extent, there is a painful conviction forced upon us, as we survey our city population, that the heart of the evil is not reached. Our present Church methods do not penetrate to those masses. Some supplementary measures must be adopted.

In a simpler state of society the poor are fairly within reach of the Church:—Witness the easy relief, by Church collections on sacramental occasions, of the Scottish poor, for the last three centuries. In the rural parishes of Scotland or England the pastor can with ease visit every rich man, and lend his aid to every pauper. Under religious establishments, the pleis ecclesiastics are cantoned off into so many parishes, which nominally exist, though with judicious insufficiency, even in the great capitals. But in our country, the evils of vice and misery have grown far beyond the arms-length of clerical and parochial care. What, for instance, can one of our pastors do, even in this little City, in the way of visiting his own flock, compared with what is demanded of him, and I was going to say, with what he ought to do? In the absence of all parish limits, and, amidst the unlimited elective affinity of hearers, his people are scattered, all over the whole corporation inside, and not a few of them live outside; and in his laborious walks to see remote parishioners, he often recalls the verses of Horace:

> "Culsat hic in colle Quirini,
> Hic extremo in Aventino; viesndus uterque."

Then it is to be considered that hundreds—several hundreds, indeed—fall under no evangelical influence whatever, being stated attendants on the worship of no one denomination; and this in the very population within which, for the most part, these great evils exist. They do not come to relief; the relief must be carried to them or they must remain unrelieved. This we consider the great fact to be pondered by all who take any interest in them. Some mighty consentaneous assault must be made upon the citadel of evil. To be thorough, it must be an organized effort. A beginning has been made, but it has not carried the Christian public along with it in such a way as to ensure success. "The Young Men's Christian Association," though organized for several other laudable purposes, has already done much for the relief of the temporal suffering of the poor. The result of the last winter's experiment has almost relieved our town from the disgrace and annoyance of begging at doors. If the principles of this admirable association can be pursued and realized, to the extent it deserves, it will do vastly more yet; and its benignant influence not be confined to the relief of bodily wants merely, but extend to that of their spiritual interests also.

The evils which abound and increase in our city are too numerous and too malignant, to be left to cure themselves. Neither will the ordinary progress of church effort suffice to abate the nuisance. They must be taken by assault and a direct aggressive movement made for this very purpose.—We believe, indeed, that true religion never exists in any community, without lessening its social evils and increasing its general happiness, to a certain extent. We believe, that Christianity, merely as an instrument of civilization, is at once the most feasible and the most perfect, which has been placed within the reach of man. But then, this instrument must be brought to bear. Churches may possess a certain degree of health and vigor, in the midst of a vicious community, without being strong enough or numerous enough to affect the corruptness to any sufficient extent. This is precisely the state of the case in our town at present. There are some four or five churches in our midst, but there are hundreds on hundreds, who do not belong to any of them. These persons must be sought out; must be visited, must be made the objects of continued and reiterated applications. Supply and demand are not reciprocal agents in morals—these are wants which do not supply themselves. The Gospel and the means of elevation must be carried to them. And there are, at this very moment, abundant resources in the members of the churches, poor as all are, to accomplish this end, fully and economically, if they were only brought into action through the admirable organization of "The Young Men's Christian Association."

There are difficulties connected with this branch of economics, we readily admit.—But with unity of plan, division of labor, territorial partition into small fields, numerous laborers, and frequent going over each district, all these difficulties would readily give way. Such a plan, it is found hard to carry out in such a condition of society as ours. A government might canton off one town, and carry domiciliary inspection or relief to every street; but this would not answer our purposes. Were our religious population homogeneous, so that we all were of one persuasion, it would be an easy task to carry the Gospel and temporal relief to every poor inhabitant. But we are split up into numerous sects. What shall then be done? Shall we leave each denomination of Christians, in its distinctive capacity, to perform this work? It is most evident that nothing sate or effectual can ever be accomplished by such means.

This plan, if indeed it may be called a plan, has been pursued for thirty years,—or ever since the writer has lived in Raleigh,—and with what effect? That it may have done some little good we do not deny,—but let any one make a personal examination of the whole city, and if he is not appalled at the increase of vice and ignorance and misery, then we do not envy his sensibilities. Now, there are hundreds of recesses of evil, which we are afraid the churches as such know nothing about, and which, if they did know, the Baptist or the Episcopalian, the Methodist or the Presbyterian, as such, never could reach. No way seem to be left, then, but that of Christian union, of various sects, holding one common faith. Here, if any where, is a fair field for such exertions; and we are glad to have it in our power to avow a hearty sympathy with an effort of this kind, which, within one short year, has done more in this cause, than has been done without it in any ten before.

Providence has so ordered it, that every city or town contains all the instrumentalities needed for its conservation and advancement. If the energies of religious people in Raleigh were organized and concentrated as they might be, the effects would be such as no example has yet reached. The principle obstacles in the way to such a concentration of effort, are the miserable jealousies of sect, and the low state of vital religion. It is our deliberate opinion, that at no time, within thirty years, has the flame of piety burnt lower, in the churches of all persuasions, than at the present hour. Regular worship and the ordinary usages of each church are kept up, it is true, but all in a cold and perfunctory way:—while the warm glow of Christian love which we well remember, is no longer present, and so long as this is the case, it is vain to expect great acts of doing or of sacrifice, in opposition to surrounding vice.

Now, may not the efforts of the "Young Men's Christian Association" serve to correct this evil? Bring "the live coals" together from each denomination, and a fire may be kindled that shall warm all the Churches, and build them up in every good work. "Ah! but"—say some—"this will be taking away from the minister his own peculiar work?" Not at all—it will only be helping him in his work. But we are not one of those who would have every thing in the hands of the clergy. We have no morbid dread of lay-teachings and lay-working. "Would to God, all God's people were prophets." We have never, for an instant, joined in the silly cry against the labors of laymen. We are not prepared to vindicate those jealousies on the part of the clergy, which tend to paralyse the arm of the laity. But at the same time, we are as clearly of opinion, that in every measure, which concerns the dissemination of the gospel, it is all important to bring in, as advisers and co-operators, that class of men whose precise function this is, by the appointment of Christ himself.

The rapid growth of ignorance, irreligion, poverty and crime, warn us that what we do in this matter must be done quickly.

Valuable Town Property for Sale at Graham, N. C.

A fine Location for an Attorney at Law.

HAVING DETERMINED TO REMOVE TO Charlotte, N. C., I offer for sale my property in the town of Graham, N. C.

The property consists of House and Lot, well located, with beautiful grounds. The house is nearly new, with six rooms and two porches. All necessary out-houses, with an office on the corner of the lot, convenient to the Court House.

Attached to this property is

SIXTY ACRES OF LAND,

twenty of which is in woods. The property is very desirable, in a good location of country, and one of the best sections for an Attorney in the State, with a good large paying docket. To an Attorney well recommended, I would transfer my practice, with papers, &c., or, if preferred, would form a copartnership in the practice.

This valuable property will be sold at once—Those wishing to purchase are invited to examine the premises.

MAYOR'S COURT.—A warrant was issued for Rufus Whitaker, colored, who shot with a gun, Lewis Burt, colored, on the 23rd. instant—inflicting a dangerous wound in the left groin. Burt is now in a critical condition, and it is thought the wound will prove fatal. Whitaker has not yet been arrested, but the officers are in pursuit of him.

CHRISTMAS—SUSPENSION.—In order to allow the employees in this office an opportunity of participating in the festivities of the season, no paper will be issued from this office to-morrow morning.

LIPPINCOTT'S MAGAZINE.—This is a new literary monthly, laid on our table by Messrs. William & Lambeth, booksellers of our city. It is published by the house of Lippincott & Co., Philadelphia, publishers and booksellers, and adds another to the numerous publications of this kind. Whether it has any special claims to Southern patronage, we have not been able to determine, not having examined it only in a cursory way. Price per year $4. In typographical execution, it is what a magazine should be.

"In reply to a subscriber who asks the precise significance of the word "Acrobat," the Sentinel states that the word is not to be found either in Walker, Webster or Worcester. If our cotemporary will use good glasses, he will find the word, even in Webster's Abridged."—Wilmington Star.

Our cotemporary must have very good glasses, if he can find the word even in Webster's Unabridged.

A FAILURE.—We learn that the Radical meeting at the Court House, on Monday evening, for the purpose of procuring additional signatures to the recommendation for the appointment of the mongrel municipal ticket, was an egregious failure. The more respectable portion of the blacks will have nothing to do with it. But few whites, of course, will touch it "with a ten foot pole."

INFORMATION WANTED.—Of one Edwin M. Stanton, late Secretary of War, who, since the President's explanation of his suspension, has not been heard of. From a late declaration of Wendell Phillips, that he would not bet a sixpence on Stanton's restoration, it is feared that he has gone to Alaska.—N. Y. Herald.

SIGNS OF A HARD WINTER.—Meteoric showers, volcanic eruptions, hurricanes, earthquakes, frozen rivers and a foot of snow on the ground and still snowing a week before Christmas.—N. Y. Herald.

Sumner, Stevens and Butler tell the Southern Radicals, black and white, that they cannot err on the side of severity toward the white people among them. Proscribe, confiscate, deny business facilities, is the policy recommended to Southern Conventions by the Radicals at Washington, whose Committee control the negro vote through secret Loyal Leagues.—Boston Post.

A negro named William Mitchell, in Charleston, the other day, while trying to break, with an axe, a loaded fifty pound conical shell to sell for old iron, it suddenly exploded. The negro was thrown back in a kitchen and escaped with a few bruises.

ANOTHER ORDER BY GEN. HANCOCK.—Gen. Hancock has issued an order, revoking orders of Gen. Mower removing certain Judges, among them the Superintendent of Education, Secretary of State, and other officials. These are the removals which were suspended on orders from Washington, and Gen. Hancock says that the evidence submitted does not sustain the allegations.

GOOD.—We have the highest authority for stating that no per diem will be paid to members of the Convention during the interim caused by the adjournment of that body for the holidays; neither will they be allowed mileage.—Rich. Dispatch.

The Baltimore Gazette thinks that Gen. Grant, in writing his endorsement of Stanton and Sheridan, for the moment, "got down from the fence a little too soon, and on the wrong side."

"That's what I call a repetition," exclaimed a wag the other day.

"What's that, Tom?" said his friend.

"Why, look at that sign across the way—J. E. Weller, jeweller."

"Father," said a cobbler's lad, as he was pegging away on an old shoe, "they say trout bite like everything now." "Well, well," replied the old gentlemen, "stick to your work and they won't bite you."

In view of the recent outrages committed or attempted by the Fenians in England, the Cabinet has determined to ask Parliament to suspend the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus in England.

The Whig advocates the consolidation of the York, Richmond and Danville and Piedmont railroads, which if effected will give unity to the line from Greensboro' to the White House.

The New York Journal of Commerce sees signs of a split in the ranks of the Radicals in the South. In this it has better eyes than we can boast.

A VALUABLE RECEIPT.—To take stains from linen, take a pair of scissors and cut carefully around the spot, then sew in another piece, when the stain will be completely removed.

None so poor to do (them) reverence.—The Richmond Shark Convention couldn't pass the resolution asking a perpetuation of the F. B. officials.

The Southern negroes, says Prentice, like Shakespeare's breeze over a bank of violets, are "stealing and giving odor."

Two hundred clerks were discharged on Saturday from one drapery house on Broadway, New York.

Charles Dickens will give a reading in Hartford shortly. Price, $3,000.

COURT OF PLEAS AND QUARTER SESSIONS, NOVEMBER TERM, A. D. 1867.

Joseph P Hardee, Adm'r of Eliza Graham, dec'd., vs. Martha But John Tyre, William White. | Petition to sell Real Estate for assets.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that Martha But is a non-resident of this State, so that process cannot be served upon her, it is ordered by the Court, that publication be made, for six weeks, in the Raleigh Sentinel, a newspaper published in the City of Raleigh, notifying her to appear at the next term of this Court, to be held for the County of Pitt, at the Court House in Greenville on the first Monday of February next, to answer to said petition, or the prayer of the petitioner, Joseph P Hardee, Administrator of the late Eliza Graham, dec'd., will be granted.

Witness, E. A. DANCY, Clerk of our said Court, at office, the first Monday of November, A. D., 1867. E. A. DANCY, C. C. C.

IN EQUITY.

The Thomasville Bank vs. The Creditors of the Thomasville Bank. }

In obedience to a decree and order of the Court of Equity, made in the above named cause, notice is hereby given to all the creditors of the said "The Thomasville Bank," that said Bank has filed a bill in the Court of Equity of the said County of Davidson to close the business of said Bank, and surrender the chartered rights and franchises of the Stockholders of said Bank, in pursuance of an Act of Assembly, entitled 'An Act to enable the Banks of this State to close their business," ratified the 12th day of March, A. D., 1866; that a Commissioner, to-wit: J. A. Lee, Esq., of said County, has been duly appointed in pursuance of said Act of Assembly, and has been invested with all the rights and effects whatsoever of said Bank; and all creditors of said Bank are hereby notified to appear before the said Commissioner and prove their several claims, debts and demands against said Bank, according to said Act of Assembly, by the first day of March, A. D. 1868, or they will be forever barred, and the Court will proceed to administer the assets of said Bank without regard to any claims and demands not so established.

Witness F. C ROBBINS, Clerk and Master of said Court, and the seal of the said Court of Equity, at office in Lexington, in said County, the 18th day of December, A. D., 1867.

William J. Brown, John F. Brown vs. Margaret Latimer and others.

Petition to perfect the Records of this Court, made in the case of the petition of Margaret Latimer and others, filed at Spring Term, 1818, which have been destroyed by fire, and praying the Court to substitute a certified copy thereof in place of the original, and enroll the same.

It appearing to the satisfaction of the Court, that the defendants, Margaret Latimer and Elizabeth Latimer, heirs at law of George Latimer, deceased; John R. Latimer, Mary R. Latimer and Henry Latimer, heirs at law of Henry Latimer, deceased; James Campbell and wife Margaret, Mathias Nead and wife Mary, Samuel Van Trip and wife Mary, James Poe and John Poe, heirs at law of Elizabeth Poe, deceased; John M Dale Edward C. Dale, George C Read and wife Elizabeth, and Elizabeth D Pettet, Richard D. Pettet and Sarah Pettet, heirs at law of Susan M. Pettet, and Thomas M. Pettet, heir at law of Richard Dale, are non residents of this State: It is therefore ordered by this Court, that publication be made for six successive weeks in the Weekly Sentinel, published in the City of Raleigh, requiring the said defendants to appear at the next term of this Court, to be held at the Court House in Asheville on the 7th Monday after the 4th Monday in April next, and show cause why the prayers of the petitioners shall not be granted.

Witness W. M. HARDY, Clerk of our said Court, at office in Asheville, the 7th Monday after the 4th Monday in September, A. D. 1867.

Life Insurance continues to occupy the most serious consideration of the heads of families, who, by the casualties of war, short crops and short price of Cotton, have been deprived of the support they relied upon, in case of death for their dependents; and the question with them is, "Which is the OLDEST, SAFEST, LARGEST, MOST ECONOMICAL and RELIABLE COMPANY represented in North Carolina?" I unhesitatingly assure them that I have indisputable evidence that the CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE INSURANCE Co. is, without doubt, prepared to prove, from the most trustworthy and authentic official reports, that she has a larger amount of assetts than all other Companies in this State combined; that for eighteen years she has declared an average of fifty per cent dividend; for thirteen years her interest on investment has exceeded her losses; and her vast business is conducted at a much less expense.

All she makes is shared by the assured. No Stockholder receives the lion's share of the profits, and no Company pays its losses more promptly. Last year (1866) she paid to widows and orphans upwards of a Million of Dollars. Therefore, apply at once to P. F. PESCUD, Agt.,

Insurance.

We have in our Office a Chart, giving the sworn statement of a number of Life Insurance Companies, made to the "Insurance Department of the State of New York, for the year ending Dec. 31st, 1866," in comparing which we see that the CONNECTICUT MUTUAL LIFE is larger and far exceeds the five other Companies represented in this State—as follows: The Ætna Life, Brooklyn, Equitable, Manhattan and North America. Their total Assets, combined, are $12 856,867.14; Connecticut Mutual Assets $13,316,275,97, larger by $459 408 83. Their dividends, paid to policy holders, 231,942,99; Connecticut Mutual dividends to policy holders, $531,458 00—larger by $300,515,-01. Their expenses and taxes, in 1866, $1,372,-169.55; Connecticut Mutual's $723,230,42—less by $648,939,13. Their ratio of expenses to premium and interest $20,13; Connecticut Mutual's $11,-11—less by $9,02.

One can see, at a glance, how much more it costs, in proportion, to work a small Company than a large one. Their dividends paid to Stockholders $28 762. The Connecticut Mutual's only Stockholders are its 55,000 Policy holders, and they now hold (Dec. 1867) $17,000,000 A large amount of this money is invested in real estate and State bonds, so there is no safer, nor cheaper investment for a man to make for his family. It has become such a prosperous institution that its interest alone more than pays losses—notwithstanding the large dividends it annually returns to its Policy holders.

Another grand feature: All its policies are non-forfeitable for a stated amount; the continued Life after three payments; the ten year Life and Endowment after two payments.

We have branch offices in ten of the principal Cities and Towns in this State, where facts and statements can be had, and applications taken.—The Company "employs no travelling or itinerant Agents." "The Company requires that their Agents shall thoroughly identify themselves with its interest." S. D. WAIT, Gen. Agt.

FOR CHILDREN TEETHING, GREATLY FACILITATES the process of teething, by softening the gums, reducing all inflammation—will allay ALL PAIN and spasmodic action, and is SURE TO REGULATE THE BOWELS.

Depend upon it, mothers, it will give rest to yourselves, and

Relief and Health to your Infant.

We have put up and sold this article for years, and can say in CONFIDENCE AND TRUTH of it what we have never been able to say of any other medicine—NEVER HAS IT FAILED in a single instance to EFFECT A CURE, when timely used. Never did we know an instance of dissatisfaction by any one who used it. On the contrary, all are delighted with its operation, and speak in terms of commendation of its magical effects and medical virtue. We speak in this matter "WHAT WE DO KNOW," after years of experience, and PLEDGE OUR REPUTATION FOR THE FULFILMENT OF WHAT WE HERE DECLARE. In almost every instance where the infant is suffering from pain and exhaustion, relief will be found in fifteen or twenty minutes after the Syrup is administered.

Full directions for using will accompany each bottle.

WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 25, 1867.

THE GUESTS OF THE HEART.

Soft falls through the gathering twilight
The rain from the dripping eaves,
And stirs with a tremulous rustle
The dead and the dying leaves;
While afar in the midst of the shadows,
I hear the sweet voices of bells
Come borne on the wind of the autumn,
That fitfully rises and swells.

They call and they answer each other—
They answer and mingle again—
As the deep and the shrill in an anthem
Make harmony still in their strain;
As the voices of sentinels mingle
In the mountainous regions of snow,
Till from hill-top to hill-top a chorus
Floats down to the valleys below.

The shadows, the fire-light of even,
The sound of the rain's distant chime,
Come bringing, with rain softly dropping,
Sweet thoughts of a shadowy time:
The slumberous sense of seclusion,
From storm and intruders aloof,
We feel when we hear in the midnight
The patter of rain on the roof.

When the spirit goes forth in its yearning
To take all its wanderers home;
Or, after in the regions of fancy,
Delights on swift pinions to roam,
I quietly sit by the fire-light—
The fire-light so bright and so warm—
For I known that those only who love me
Will see me through shadow and storm.

But should they be absent this evening,
Should even the household depart—
Deserted, I should not be lonely;
There still would be guests in my heart.
The faces of friends that I cherish,
The smile, and the glance, and the tone,
Will haunt me wherever I wander,
And thus I am never alone.

With those who have left far behind them
The joys and sorrows of time—
Who sing the sweet songs of the angels
In a purer and holier clime!
Then darkly, O evening of autumn,
Your rain and your shadows may fall;
My loved and my lost ones you bring me—
My heart holds a feast with them all.

THE REV. CHARLES KINGSLEY ON MUSIC.

There is something very wonderful in music. Words are wonderful enough; but music is even more wonderful. It speaks not to our thoughts as words do, it speaks straight to our hearts and spirits, to the very core and root of our souls. Music soothes, stirs us up; it puts noble feelings into us; it melts us to tears, we know not how; it is a language by itself, just as perfect in its way, as speech, as words; just as divine, just as blessed.

Music has been called the speech of angels; I will go further, and call it the speech of God himself. And I will, with God's help, show you a little what I mean, this Christmas day.

Music, I say, without word, is wonderful and blessed; one of God's best gifts to man. But in singing you have both the wonders together, music and words. Singing speaks at once to the head and to the heart, to our understanding and to our feelings; and, therefore, perhaps, the most beautiful way in which the reasonable soul of man can show itself (except, of course, doing right, which always is, and always will be, the most beautiful thing,) is singing.

Now, why do we all enjoy music? Because it sounds sweet. But why does it sound sweet?

That is a mystery, known only to God.

Two things I may make you understand—two things which help to make music—melody and harmony. Now as most of you know, there is melody in music when the different sounds of the same tune follow each other, so as to give us pleasure; there is harmony in music when different sounds, instead of following each other, come at the same time, so as to give us pleasure.

But why do they please us? and what is more, why do they please angels? and more still, why do they please God? Why is there music in heaven? Consider S. John's visions in the Revelation. Why did S. John hear therein harpers with their harps, and the mystic beasts, and the elders, singing a new song to God and to the Lamb; and the voices of many angels round about them, whose number was ten thousand times ten thousand.

In this is a great mystery. I will try to explain what little of it I seem to see.

First—There is music in heaven, because in music there is no self-will. Music goes on certain laws and rules. Man did not make these laws of music, he has only found them out; and if he be self-willed and break them, there is an end of his music instantly; all he brings out is discord and ugly sounds. The greatest musician in the world is as much bound by those laws as the learner in the school; and the greatest musician is the one who, instead of fancying that, because he is clever, he may throw aside the laws of music, knows the laws of music best, and observes them most reverently. And therefore it was that the old Greeks, the wisest of all the heathens, made a point of teaching their children music; because, they said, it taught them not to be self-willed and fanciful, but to see the beauty of order, the usefulness of rule, the divineness of laws.

And therefore music is fit for heaven; therefore music is a pattern and type of heaven, and of the everlasting life of God which perfect spirits live in heaven; a life of melody and order in themselves; a life of harmony with each other and with God. Music, I say, is a pattern of the everlasting life of heaven; because in heaven, as in music, is perfect freedom and perfect pleasure. And yet that freedom comes not from throwing away law, but from obeying God's law perfectly; and that pleasure comes, not from self-will, and doing each what he likes, but from perfectly doing the will of the Father who is in heaven.

And that in itself would be sweet music, even if there were neither voice nor sound in heaven. For wherever there is order and obedience, there is sweet music for the ears of Christ. Whatsoever does its duty, according to its kind which Christ has given it, makes melody in the ears of Christ.—Whatsoever is useful to the things around it, makes harmony in the ears of Christ.—Therefore those wise old Greeks used to talk of the music of the spheres. They said that sun, moon, and stars, going around each in its appointed path, made as they rolled along across the heavens everlasting music before the throne of God. And so, too, the old Psalms say. Do you not recollect that noble verse, which speaks of the stars of heaven, and says—

"What though no human voice or sound
Amid their radiant orbs be found?
To Reason's ear they all rejoice,
And utter forth a glorious voice;
For ever singing as they shine,
The hand that made us is divine."

And therefore it is, that that noble song of the Three Children calls upon sun and moon, and stars of heaven, to bless the Lord, praise Him, and magnify Him forever; and not only upon them, but on the smallest things on earth—on mountains and hills, green herbs and springs, cattle and feathered fowl; they too, he says, can bless the Lord, and magnify Him forever. And how? By fulfilling the law which God has given; and by living each other after their kind, according to the wisdom wherewith Christ the Word of God created them, when He beheld all that He had made, and behold, it was very good.

And so can we, my friends; so can we. Some of us may not be able to make music with our voices; but we can make it with our hearts, and join the angels' song this day, if not with our lips, yet in our lives.

If thou fulfillest the law which God has given thee, the law of love and liberty, then thou makest music before God, and thy life is a hymn of praise to God.

If thou art in love and charity with thy neighbors, thou art making sweeter harmony in the ears of the Lord Jesus Christ, than psaltery, dulcimer, and all kinds of music.

If thou art living a righteous and a useful life, doing thy duty orderly and cheerfully where God has put thee, then thou art making sweeter melody in the ears of the Lord Jesus Christ, than if thou hadst the throat of a nightingale; for then thou in thy humble place art humbly copying the everlasting harmony and melody which is in heaven; the everlasting harmony and melody by which God made the world, and all that therein is, and behold it was very good, in the day when the morning stars sang together, and all the sons of God shouted for joy over the new-created earth, which God had made to be a pattern of His Own perfection.

For this is that mystery of which I spoke just now, when I said that music was as it were the voice of God himself. Yes, I say it with all reverence; but I do say it. There is music in God. Not the music of voice or sound, a music which no ears can hear, but only the spirit of a man when awakened by the Holy Spirit, and taught to know God, Father, Son, and Holy Spirit.

There is one everlasting melody in heaven, which Christ, the Word of God, makes forever, when He does all things perfectly and wisely, and righteously and gloriously, full of grace and truth; and from that all melody comes, and is a dim pattern thereof here, and is beautiful only because it is a dim pattern thereof.

And there is an everlasting harmony in God; which is a harmony between the Father and the Son, who though He be co-equal and co-eternal with His Father, does nothing of Himself, but only what He seeth His Father do; saying forever, 'Not My will, but Thine be done,' and hears His Father answer forever, 'Thou art My Son, this day have I begotten Thee.'

Therefore all melody and all harmony upon earth, whether in the song of birds, the whisper of the wind, the concourse of voices, or the sounds of those cunning instruments which man has learned to create, because he is made in the image of Christ, the Word of God, who creates all things; all music upon earth, I say, is beautiful in as far as it is a pattern and type of the everlasting music which is in heaven; which was before all worlds, and shall be after them; for, by its rules all worlds were made, and will be made forever, even the everlasting melody of the wise and loving will of God, and the everlasting harmony of the Father toward the Son, and of the Son toward the Father, in one Holy Spirit who proceeds from them both, to give melody and harmony, order and beauty, life and light, to all which God has made.

Therefore music is a sacred, a divine, a Godlike thing, and was given to man by Christ to lift our hearts up to God, and make us feel something of the glory and beauty of God and all which God has made.

Therefore, too, music is most fit for Christmas day, of all days in the year.—Christmas has always been a day of songs, of carols, and of hymns; and so let it be forever. If we had no music all the rest of the year in church or out of church, let us have it at least on Christmas day.

For on Christmas day most of all days (if I may talk of eternal things according to the laws of time) was manifested on earth the everlasting music which is in heaven.

On Christmas day was fulfilled in time and space the everlasting harmony of God, when the Father sent the Son into the world, that the world through Him might be saved; and the Son refused not, neither shrank back, though He knew that sorrow, shame, and death awaited Him, but answered, 'A body hast Thou prepared Me * * * I come to do Thy will, oh God!' and so emptied Himself, and took on Himself the form of a slave, and was found in fashion as a man, that He might fulfill not His Own will, but the will of the Father Who sent Him.

On this day began that perfect melody of the Son's life on earth; one song and poem, as it were, of wise words, good deeds, spotless purity, and untiring love, which He perfected when He died, and rose again, and ascended on high forever to make intercession for us with music sweeter than the song of angles and archangels, and all the heavenly host.

Go home, then, remembering how divine and holy a thing music is, and rejoice before the Lord this day with psalms and hymns, and spiritual songs (by which last I think the apostle means not merely church music—for that he calls psalms and hymns—but songs which have a good and wholesome spirit in them); and remembering, too, that music, like marriage, and all other beautiful things which God has given to man, is not to be taken in hand unadvisedly, lightly, or wantonly; but, even when it is most cheerful and joyful (as marriage is), reverently, discreetly, soberly, and in the fear of God. Amen.—Christmas Sermon.

BOOTS AND SHOES.

A large Stock of the most celebrated manufacture of Gent's and Ladies' Boots and Shoes, Gaiters, &c.

Now is the time for you to lay in your supply of Goods, for they are advancing North. I am selling at cost. Come one and all and examine my stock and prices. Do not be induced to buy goods elsewhere until you give me a call. When I say I am selling at Cost I mean just what I say; it is not for the purpose of humbugging you.

Merchants in the City whose stocks need replenishing would do well to call soon and make their purchases.

IN THE MILLINERY LINE

MRS. OETTINGER is again ready to serve her friends and patrons. She has just returned from the Northern Markets, well posted, and with one of the nicest and largest stocks of that ever was brought to this town. She has something to suit all classes.

Trimmed Hats from 50 cents up.
Bonnets made of silks, velvets, straw and gimp.
Velvets, Silks and Satins of every color and shade.
In Ribbons, Flowers, Feathers and Ornaments, her stock cannot be excelled.

It is useless to speak of her good taste in trimming Bonnets and Hats. She is too well known for that among the Ladies, far and near, to need call before you buy elsewhere, at

MRS. OETTINGER'S.
(You all know where she lives.)

P. S.—She will have an opening on Thursday, 10th of October.
October 3—3m.
